

I've been at this school for 7 months and all of a sudden people think that they now have to wear a mask when they see me walk by, like I personally brought the virus over from China.

Hey!
Wanna play
some soccer?

You mean
you aren't afraid
you'll catch COVID-19
if you play
with me?

If you're not sick,
then no. But, I get it that some people are acting
weird toward you and they don't even realize it...

...like
I AM the virus?

Exactly. BUT it's ok to nicely remind
people who you are
and that you're
affected personally
by the virus, too.

True. Knowledge is power, and if they know who I am
maybe they'll realize that we're all fighting
this thing together.
