KTNV (ABC) and KLAS (CBS) filmed NATA President Tory Lindley, MA, ATC, and Forbes, discussing the findings from a survey conducted by the NATA Intercollegiate Council for Sports Medicine evaluating the adoption of the NCAA standards in football. National media outlets, including ESPN.com and Forbes, were aware of NATA's work toward the future. This year is no exception with a bevy of events taking place throughout the day in Shoreline.

Support the NATA Foundation

During the course of NATA 2019, there are a couple of ways attendees can help the NATA Foundation reach its goals. "The money helps us further the advancement of the AT profession," said NATA Foundation Director Jennifer Yoder. "It helps us facilitate our research and education programs." Attendees can help by donating CWI tubs to local Clark County secondary schools that have a certified athletic trainer. NATA also announced that it is donating CWI tubs to local Clark County secondary schools that have a certified athletic trainer.
